SENIOR EDITION 2018

1339 E. McMILLAN STREET | CINCINNATI, OHIO | 45206

The Senior Address: From Trees to Dreams

By Brittany Shine

A deep breath in the mirror, then a quick glance at the bright yellow Post-It note hanging on the wall reading, “She believed she could, so she did.” Throughout SUA, on hallway walls, bathroom mirrors, bulletin boards, and stuck to water fountains, hang little squares of paper just like this one, holding inspiration, hope, and the reminder that no student is alone. A piece of paper, a few words, a whole new attitude.

Literature books filled with bright yellow highlighter and notes scribbled in the margins, contrasting otherwise dull white pages. Tests, quizzes, and exams marked by bold red ink in the top corners, scores otherwise long forgotten. Notebooks filled by class lectures and homework assignments, problems crossed out, erased, and restarted. These remain tangible reminders of the late nights spent studying, the beating of your heart as the teacher returns the test, followed by that sigh of relief when you realize that your hard work paid off. Collections of paper, countless words written, new knowledge.

Oversized posters demonstrate the changes around campus over our time at the Academy. Those hanging above the waste reduction center in Keller serve as guidelines to the process of sorting lunch waste. Skinny black tripods hold up images of the projected finished library, theater, and art and design wing. Pictures of senior athletes adorn the walls of courts and fields as they enter their final Ursula sports season. Large pieces of paper, representations of change, the realization that the future is now.

As unsure eighth graders, we awaited the contents of the envelope marked “from Saint Ursula Academy” and wondered what our futures would hold. Along the way we wrote letters to our future selves as time capsules from that moment, addressed to whom we hoped to become. The image of a sky-blue hat printed on cardstock invited us to the Senior Tea. More recently we waited by the mailbox for news from colleges, hoping that our years of hard work would pay off with an acceptance letter. Envelopes in the mail, keys to our future, ready for the next adventure.

It’s all just paper. Fiber from trees. Paper can record the chronological events but cannot fully describe the ways in which we have felt. The feeling of cold paint hitting your skin before the senior parade. The smiles in the rain, when pictures appear on the concrete around campus. The feeling of sisterhood as we sway to our school song. We stand today for another piece of paper, our diploma. This paper symbolizes the small Post-It notes, the school notes, the images of change and the envelopes in the mail. This diploma may seem to encompass it all, yet I challenge you to remember not just the events but also the feelings. A piece of paper, an ending, and a new beginning. As the Post-It notes can remind you, “You got this!”

A Fond Farewell to our Senior Staff

Audrey Felton joined The Light this year because she has always enjoyed reading the SUA newspaper and wanted to be a part of such an energetic and informed group. She loved writing about fall fashion and the annual SUA Orange and White game. Audrey is very excited to be headed to New York City next year to study English at Fordham University where she hopes to spend more time eating pizza than getting lost on the subway.

Elizabeth Geraghty joined The Light this year. Besides enjoying graphic design and thrift shopping, she is leader in photography club and SFA. She is passionate about human interest stories that focus on local business and research. Elizabeth is pursuing urban planning at the University of Cincinnati in the fall.

Bebe Hodges: has been a staff writer on The Light for four years. The Light has been an integral part of her high school experience. In grade school, she couldn't wait to join a high school newspaper and owes endless gratitude to the organization and its leaders for helping her grow as a writer. Her articles have spanned topics ranging from Lilly Pulitzer at Target to leading female journalists overcoming gender stereotypes and inspiring a new generation of writers. Bebe looks forward to being a Quaker as she attends The University of Pennsylvania this fall.

Katie Schulte has been a member of The Light for 3 years and served as co-editor her senior year. She has covered many current events during her time as a staff writer. This year she also designed the print edition. Katie will be continuing her education at Fordham University and plans to study journalism.
