

SAINT URSULA ACADEMY

SENIOR EDITION 2016

1339 E. McMILLAN STREET | CINCINNATI, OHIO | 45206

The Senior Address

By Emma Krug

This isn't happening. You are still in shock from the traumatic event that just unfolded before your eyes. Will the humiliation of returning to school be too unbearable? In an instant, every teacher and student will know what you have done. You have just "Replied All" to an all-school email.

In Price Hill, a junior at St. Ursula receives your email. Assuming you must be a freshman or sophomore, she breathes a sigh of relief, knowing she is an upperclassman, too mature now to commit such an egregious mistake. However, her junior packet is due tomorrow, and this student has only completed one question ("Print your full name here."). She minimizes your email and returns to her packet. No Netflix bingeing tonight!

Meanwhile, a sophomore in Covington sees the Gmail logo appear on her tablet screen. She reminisces about her friend making the same mistake last year as an "awkward freshman." "Thank goodness it wasn't me," she thinks. Suddenly she remembers her mission: getting $55 for the Scholarship Walk and hopefully a day off school so that she can sleep in while all her friends at other schools complain about getting up early on a Monday morning! She needs to circulate the fundraising link A.S.A.P. and quickly puts your email out of her mind.

Across the river in Hyde Park, a senior's phone lights up with your message. She has just finished colorfully annotating Conrad's novella, so, naturally all she can think is: "The horror! The horror!" Suddenly, this student realizes that the Orange & White game starts in five minutes, and she quickly forgets your email blunder. She grabs her florescent orange t-shirt and heads off to support the undefeated Bulldogs.

In Clifton, a freshman diligently reading every message in her Inbox stumbles upon yours. She hopes to avoid similar embarrassment over the next three years, which may be difficult considering Freshman Semi-Formal is just around the corner. Overtaken by panic, your email is forgotten as she worries about her dress, her date, and her plans for carpooling.

Luckily, your hapless "Reply All" email has dodged every possible bullet. You are guardedly optimistic that you can return to school and not experience any judgmental glares. But why were you so apprehensive in the first place? Saint Ursula has always had a "Love All" atmosphere.

As a member of the Class of 2016, I can attest, no matter what part of town a student comes from or what grade she is in, she is a part of the SUA family. As graduates, we remain a part of this family regardless of where college takes us. But please remember next year, though I would enjoy an email from you, your entire college campus probably will not!
